

INDIGO

ORBITRAX / ORBITA – FLORENCE, IT

Indigo is a DJ and label owner from Florence, Italy — part of a generation of Italian selectors more interested in the search than the spotlight.

His route into electronic music ran through industrial and hip-hop: an education in raw textures and loop discipline that still shapes the way he plays. Behind the decks he favours patience over impact, weaving minimal and tech house grooves, stripped-back electro, unreleased cuts and overlooked records into long, seamless arcs where the details do the talking. It is a style built on years of listening and digging, and on the conviction that a set should reveal its character slowly rather than announce it.

The same instinct runs through his work away from the booth. As head of the vinyl imprint Orbitrax, he documents the sounds he cannot find elsewhere — music pressed to wax because it deserves to last. As co-owner of ORBITA in Florence, he has helped carve out a home for unconventional music in the Italian underground, bringing kindred selectors to the city and giving its dancers a room where heritage and forward-thinking club culture meet on equal terms.

Whether digging, releasing or playing, the thread is the same: a relentless curiosity, a commitment to the unconventional, and an artistic expression that stays deliberately out of step with trends.